Bauer v. Kendig et al.—Injunction.
 On Saturday morning Judge Blanchard took up the injunction proceeding of Wm. Bauer against J. F. Kendig et al., commenced on Friday by his attorneys, Messrs. Bull, Strawn & Ruger, to enjoin defendants from running their steam printing engine in the room in Cameron's block above Bauer's saloon. The ground of the complaint was that the leakage of water from the engine was such as to ruin the ceiling of the rooms below. Affidavits were presented to sustain the motion made, by Wm. Bauer, John F. Reed, E. F. Bull and others, and counter affidavits by J. F. Kendig, Lester A. Rose, John W. Taylor and others. After listening to arguments by E. F. Bull and Messrs. Richardson and Gentleman, the Court took the matter under advisement and on Tuesday morning rendered an opinion the force of which was to allow the motion to stand undecided until it was determined whether the dripping of water complained of would not be stopped by defendants.

By an arrangement made between Judge Blanchard and State's Attorney Moloney, at the opening of the March term, it was determined that as much of the civil business of the court should be disposed of before taking up the criminal calendar as possible, and with this understanding nothing was done with criminal cases until Monday afternoon, when the state's attorney appeared in court with his cases arranged for trial, the calendar prepared by him showing the first case to be taken up to be that of The People v. Hiram Sears, for murder, and the last, No. 46, The People v. Edward Flanagan, for attempt to murder. But three of the cases on the calendar are on indictments found by the last grand jury. The balance date back from six months to four years, having been through such period continued from term to term. The first case called was that of The People, etc., v. Hiram Sears—Murder.

The facts in the Sears case have heretofore appeared in the FREE TRADER, but for the benefit of some who have not read them they will be briefly restated. The murder was committed on Saturday, February 20th, at the home of Hiram Sears, Jr., at Troy Grove, by Hiram Sears, Sr., a man aged eighty-four years, who assaulted his wife, a woman of sixty-five, with a saw, at about four o'clock in the afternoon, cutting her in such a manner as to cause her death three hours later. Sears was the same evening arrested and on Monday brought to the county jail, where he has remained ever since. When the prisoner was arraigned for trial, immediately after the finding of the indictment against him, Henry Mayo was assigned as his counsel, and as such appeared for him at the trial which commenced Monday at 2 o'clock p. m.

A jury was impaneled during the afternoon, and on Tuesday morning the state's attorney made his opening statement, followed by defendant's counsel, Mr. Mayo, who set up as the ground of defense insanity. But three witnesses were called—Mrs. Dyer and Hatheway, of this city, and Dr. Everett, of Troy Grove, all of whom swore that Sears was insane now and must have been at the time the murder was committed. It was learned from Dr. Everett that on three different occasions prior to the murdering of his wife, Sears had consulted him, complaining of a pain in the pit of his stomach which he said arose from the witchcraft practiced upon him by his wife who had been bewitched by a priest and by a resident of Troy Grove by the name of Moloney. Two of such consultations were held in the afternoon and one at two o'clock in the morning. After the physicians were examined the case was given to the jury without argument, and they at once returned a verdict that defendant was insane at the time the murder was committed and was still insane. Sears was remanded to the care of the sheriff. He will be taken to Kankakee in a short while. He is a broken-down, ignorant old man, who has become insane upon religious matters, incurably so, and the few remaining years of his life will probably be spent in an insane asylum.

Immediately on the reconvening of the court after the noon adjournment, the trial of the case of The People v. Anton Rossak was entered upon.
The People, etc., v. Anton Rossak—Attempt to Commit Murder.
 A jury was obtained in the case with little or no difficulty, and the opening statements made by counsel for the people and for the defense. The cause of complaint, as told from the witness stand by the complaining witness, Thomas Cassidy, who keeps a livery stable at La Salle, was that on Sunday, the 7th day of February last, Anton Rossak, a Polander, residing in the same city, unprovokingly shot him in the left breast. It appeared that Cassidy and a friend, John Early, who had been riding in one of Cassidy's rigs, had hitched their horse and gone into a saloon kept by Ben. Doll on 9th street, and there met Rossak and a friend. Rossak desired to take the rig, and on Cassidy's refusing to allow him, went out of the saloon, unhitched the horse and started off. The bar-keeper called Cassidy's attention to defendant's movements and he started after him. Having stopped the rig and dragged the defendant out, high words passed and Rossak drew a revolver and fired with the effect above stated. The defense was that the act was done in self-defense and that Cassidy was the assaulting party. A great number of witnesses were examined, who swore to defendant's having the reputation in La Salle of being a peaceable and orderly man. The case was argued on Wednesday by State's Attorney Moloney and W. H. Stead for the people, and E. F. Bull and S. P. Hall for the defendant. The jury retired at five o'clock, and after remaining out all night came in on Thursday morning and asked for an instruction allowing them under the indictment for attempt to commit murder to return a verdict of an assault with intent to do bodily harm, there being no considerable provocation. Having received such an instruction from Judge Blanchard, they again retired, and very shortly afterwards returned a verdict in accordance with it. The punishment of Rossak will be fine or imprisonment in the county jail, or both, the judge fixing the same.

County Court.

On Tuesday Patrick Moloney, of La Salle, who for a year past has resided at the County Asylum, was brought before Judge Gilbert and an inquest held as to his sanity. After examining County Agent Gibson and Warden Reedy, and listening to the incoherent utterances of the defendant, the jury found him not sane. His confinement of mind arises from an injury received while working in a coal mine at La Salle. He is an old man of 75, and his recovery is not possible. The court ordered him sent to Kankakee.

The following marriage licenses were issued by the county clerk during the week: Thomas W. Engles and Bessie M. Halligan, John Knecht and Nellie E. Neary, Wm. Q. Smith and Mrs. Hannah Amberg, Charles Schobert and Barbara Lawscheid, Charles F. Schmidt and Christina Danaher, Jordan W. Michael and Gertrude C. Bard, Paul Kreiger and Barbara Balda.

Decoration Day.

A very lengthy Decoration Day meeting was held at the Supervisors' Room on Tuesday evening and a large number were in attendance. The question at issue before the meeting was the day to be chosen for the observance of memorial services. A number of speeches were made in favor of Sunday, and a number in favor of Monday. After considerable wrangling it was decided by a vote of 30 to 14 that Monday should be selected as the day, and in accordance therewith the necessary preliminary steps were taken. Dr. R. E. Dyer, chairman of the General Committee, reported the following sub-committees:

Finance Committee.—T. E. MacKinlay, W. C. Biale, James McQuade.
Committee on Stands.—W. Burgess, Jacob Bano, John Horner.
Committee on Music.—Frank Marriner, W. E. Prichard, Frank Kendall, Miss Harrison.

La Salle Co. Teachers' Association.

The meeting of the association at Rutland was quite successful, about sixty teachers being in attendance. The paper prepared by Prof. Heslett, of Mendota, on "Spelling" was an able one, and this important branch of instruction was fully discussed by Professors Thomas of La Salle, Bangs of Washburne, Parker of Wenona, Phillips of Lestant, Dilla of Dana, Ong of Tonica, and others. The "Disadvantages Resulting from frequent Changes of Teachers" was also clearly shown, and many excellent and instructive remarks from Miss Maloney of Rutland, Miss Hughes of La Salle, Prof. Sanders of Seneca, Professors Heizer, Kelly and Wiley also gave some excellent advice to parents and school officers on this subject. These meetings are becoming a settled institution and very popular with teachers. The lecture delivered by Prof. C. W. Tufts of Ottawa gave the usual amount of satisfaction and was warmly applauded.

Mrs. Dr. Keck finishes this afternoon a four days' engagement at the Clifton, and well has been her success with the afflicted, judging from the reports brought in from the many patients now under her care here.

DIED.—At his residence in Seneca, Michael Flaherty, who was born in Ireland in 1801, came to Boston in 1832, and to this place in 1856, where he has since lived. Although he lived to a good old age his death was hastened by an accident. He was a devout member of the Catholic church all his life and received his last rites when dying.

Mr. Isaac D. Smead, of Toledo, Ohio, has been honored by an appointment by the governor of Ohio as one of the managers of the Ohio penitentiary, his term ending March 31, 1889. The appointment was entirely unsought, and was a surprise to him, the first information he had being the receipt of congratulatory telegrams. The Enquirer says: "The appointment is a worthy one in every regard, as Mr. Smead is a gentleman eminently qualified for the position. His appointment gives general satisfaction." Mr. Smead's friends hereabouts will join with his Ohio friends in congratulating him. He is a brother-in-law, by the way, of Hon. E. C. Lewis.

On Monday morning at 10 o'clock the assault made upon Mr. E. F. Bull and Mr. Silas W. Ruger by Lester A. Rose through the columns of an alleged newspaper published by Rose in Sunday's issue culminated in a street fight in which Mr. Ruger was badly punished by Rose. Briefly stated the facts are, while Rose was talking with Messrs. Bowman, Fiske and Mattocks in front of A. Frank's clothing store Mr. Ruger came along, and after an interchange of words blows were struck, Rose having decidedly the advantage. The melee was brought to an end by Fred Jones' pulling Rose off and preventing further pounding of Mr. Ruger. Mr. Bull, noticing the affair from the court room, where he was engaged, ran down to where it had occurred and as Rose was moving away struck at him. Rose was about to strike back when Senator Duncan, who had followed Mr. Bull from the court room, ordered him to desist and he did so. Just after this Mayor Allen appeared on the scene, when Mr. Bull accused him of not discharging his official duty to keep the peace. The Mayor denied that he had seen the fight and hence could not have stopped it. Words of assertion and denial followed and when the Mayor asserted that if Mr. Bull said he saw it he lied, Mr. Bull reached for him, but friends interfered. Warrants issued for the arrest of Rose and Messrs. Bull and Ruger, for disturbing the peace. On Wednesday Rose had a hearing before Judge Galvin and acquitted, the Court holding that he was not the assaulting party. During the ensuing week Messrs. Bull and Ruger will be tried before Police Magistrate Weeks.

From Ransom.

Many of the old settlers say that Thursday's storm was the worst ever seen in this vicinity. In the village and north of it the hail did little damage, but in the south part of the township fences were blown down, trees damaged, and windows smashed to pieces. On W. H. Conard's place over 250 lights of glass were broken. Many of the hail stones were as large as hen's eggs. While breaking a tile Monday evening Gus Steinhardt was struck in the eye by a flying splinter which cut through the lid and injured the eye. He has gone to Chicago for treatment.

Two packs of foxhounds are sustained by English settlers in the north-west corner of Iowa for the sport of chasing the prairie wolf or an occasional fox. The hunting is carried on chiefly in the spring, and is described as having all the elements of the liveliest sport of that kind. The present season has been an exceedingly good one, and the packs will be enlarged.

From Marseilles.

MARSEILLES, May 7th, 1886.
 The new members of the board met last Monday evening with the old members, and tried to organize by the election of a chairman. Twenty-three ballots were had every time resulting in three for David Samuels and three for Martin Hogan, and they adjourned without any election. According to their commissions the policeman and street commissioner hold over. It is reported that the saloons have taken out their government license, and by some it was said that they trusted the old board before they dissolved, would renew the license. This morning a notice was distributed on the streets offering $25.00 reward for the conviction of any one who unlawfully sold intoxicating liquors, signed by the Citizens League Committee.

G. W. Dow came home the other day from Chicago, where he had lately taken his folding bed business, and reported a lively time on account of the strike. His own men could not or rather were not permitted to work.

Mr. Hildebrand is fitting up his building at the head of Main St. for a dressmaking shop and residence. He will reside here permanently.
 The affairs of the "Pitts Co." are at last arranged and the business will go on with the Pitts boys, M. H. A. V., and T. D. as managers. The concern has been purchased by foreign capital. Throughout these long trying years since their first failure, these gentlemen have abundantly proven their integrity. About 75 per cent of their total indebtedness has been paid in spite of the hard times. The men who lately worked for them get their pay in full, one half at once, balance in June.

The improvements contemplated by the Land Water Power Co., are in progress. The old Illinois works has been put in repair and the power leading from the race will be entirely new. Another wheel will be put in on the east side of the present one to supply power to E. J. Keagle's machine and blacksmith shop. Charles Carney's machine and blacksmith shop, S. T. Osgood's, grain and lumber, and Harrington & Hogan's, grain and coal, as well as others who desire power. This is a move in the right direction. Arrangements are contemplated that will provide a large building where room and power may be furnished to all who wish it.

Rev. J. Straub attends the funeral of Mrs. Green, of Dayton today. It is not definitely certain that he will stay here another year.

Slack Leather.

Senator Van Wyck, of Nebraska, is probably the most bow-legged man that was ever in public life, and it is one of the traditions of the country he comes from that he has his pants cut with a circular saw. The result is that these garments are very conspicuous for their baggy appearance, and usually attract attention and comment when he is walking away from a group of his friends. The other day Senator Vance, of North Carolina, who is a great wag, was standing with a party of Senators when Van Wyck passed. Says Vance:

"Do you see those pantaloons old Crazy Horse has got on?" I never look at them without being reminded of a story of an old tarheel down in my State, who went to the circus for the first time in his life. When he came home he sat around the tavern one night drinking moonshine whisky and telling his friends what he had seen. He looked down upon them with an air of superiority, and they were rather meek inquisitive.

One of them says: "Uncle Zeke, did you see the bar at the circus?"
 "Yes," says Uncle Zeke; "I seen the bar."
 "Well," says the questioner, "what kind of a bar was it, Uncle Zeke?"
 "I never seen a bar afore," was the reply "but it pears to me as if that mought be a right smart of a bar."
 "Did you see the lion, Uncle Zeke?" put in another one.
 "Yes, I seen the lion."
 "Waal, what sort of a lion was it, Uncle Zeke?"
 "I never seen a lion afore, but it pears to me that it mought be a right smart of a lion."

"Did you see the camel, Uncle Zeke?"
 "Yes, I seen the camel."
 "What sort of a camel was it?"
 "Waal, I never seen a camel afore, but it pears to me that it mought be a right smart of a camel."
 "Did you see the elephant, Uncle Zeke?"
 "Yes, I seen the elephant."
 "What sort of an elephant was it, Uncle Zeke?"
 "Waal, I never seen an elephant afore, but it pears to me that it mought be a right smart of an elephant, barring that he had a good deal of slack leather about his pants."—Inter Ocean.

From Garfield.

GARFIELD III., May 13th.—A hail and rain storm visited this place on the 12th, breaking out some of L. L. Winter's window lights; no other damage was done here as far as heard from. Corn planting stopped suddenly. Many of the men had just time enough left to get a complete wetting, and a little pelting to remind them it had hailed some; some of the hen-wife turn of mind had a hard struggle to keep their "little chickens in the garden" dry.

Fruit prospect is very fine here at this time. Grass was never in the recollection of the white man as forward as this time in May.

Some of the farmers have been caught by sowing bad seed, and have to plow it under and plant corn.

J. J. Winter shipped out 800 dozen eggs this week. Looks like he had a bonanza on the egg trade.

Thirteen boys in the school at Arcola, Ill., struck again; further study when called in after recess. The teacher, who apparently is a torn diplomatist, called up the thirteen largest girls in the room, told them of the state of affairs, and ordered them to march out and each bring in a boy. Within three minutes and a half a baker's dozen of lads with very red faces were trying to study holes in their books, and have been too busy since to talk about the sad affair.

An Elkhart, Ind., farmer dug into a large mound on his farm and found the skeletons of twenty-two bodies that had been buried face downward, and the skulls of all had been crushed in at the back.
